

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of bridging an incoming packet from a first network to a second network. The method may comprise the steps of (A) reading a pointer for a first parameter within the incoming packet, (B) processing the first parameter in accordance with the pointer to produce a second parameter, and (C) presenting an outgoing packet containing the second parameter for the second network in response to step (B).